

Renato Rosaldo

Lucie Stern Professor in the Social Sciences;
Professor of Anthropology, Social and Cultural Analysis
New York University

Renato Rosaldo teaches Anthropology at New York University. He has been President of the American Ethnological Society, Director of the Stanford Center for Chicano Research, inaugural Director of Latino Studies at NYU, and is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. His books include Ilongot Headhunting, 1883-1974, Culture and Truth, and Renato Rosaldo: Ensayos de antropología crítica. His first book of poetry, a bilingual Spanish-English collection entitled Prayer to Spider Woman/Rezo a la mujer araña, won an American Book Award, 2004. His second book of poetry, Diego Luna's Insider Tips (2012) won the Many Mountains Moving poetry manuscript prize. A new collection of poems, The Day of Shelly's Death, is forthcoming from Duke, January 1, 2014.